Colorado Springs, Colorado | September 14–18, 2020

Resting just below Pikes Peak and the southern tip of the Rocky Mountains, Colorado Springs is a burgeoning, family-friendly city in an incredible natural setting.

The city itself is a thriving community containing a variety of arts and culture, zoos, metropolitan shopping, the United States Olympic Training Center, and the US Air Force Academy. Outside the city, opportunities for outdoor recreation and sightseeing are seemingly endless. We'll be staying at The Broadmoor, an award-winning resort and a destination in and of itself. Whether it's outfitted adventures, golf, tennis, a luxurious spa, or fine dining, you'll find the accommodations and activity options at The Broadmoor second to none. The Broadmoor blends opportunities to explore the area's magnificent surroundings and western authenticity with the service and amenities that you'll only find at a resort consistently ranked as one of the world's best.

The Broadmoor

The Broadmoor in Colorado Springs is, quite simply, one of the finest resorts in the United States. For almost a century, they've been providing guests with a mix of impeccable service, luxuriant accommodations, and seemingly unlimited opportunities for outdoor activities. If you'd like to relax and treat yourself, The Broadmoor offers a renowned spa, multiple pools, and Colorado's only Forbes Five-Star restaurant. If you're feeling a bit more active, they offer three iconic golf courses, fly fishing, horseback riding, canoeing, mountain biking, and a list of other outdoor activities too extensive to list. Come see why dignitaries and travelers from around the world choose the European elegance and Western flair of the Broadmoor when they stay in Colorado Springs.
